Company Philosophy

T.R. Fox Contracting, Inc. is a full service general contracting and construction management firm, dedicated to tailoring our capabilities and practice to your specific project goals. With over 15 years of experience in the industry, and a strong focus on personal relationships with our clients, we pride ourselves on being able to execute the most complicated of projects, without sacrificing the finest of details, which are the distinction of every design.We find great value in becoming involved at the inception of a project. Over the years we have worked with some of the most exceptional architects and designers in the city, consistently satisfying their expectations. Repeat business has allowed us the opportunity to collaborate with architects, designers, and/ or clients, in order to streamline the delivery of a project while providing comprehensive construction management services. We firmly believe that the preconstruction process is just as critical as the construction phase, as there is no substitute for proper planning.
