Highline Construction Group

Company Philosophy

Highline Construction Group is a full service construction management and general contracting firm founded to deliver the utmost in craftsmanship to esteemed architects, designers and property owners.
In an industry known for late turnarounds, Highline has established a new level of excellence by scheduling and completing even the most challenging projects with fast-tracking efficiency and skill.
Founder and principal, Mark Dobbin and his senior management have decades of hands-on experience in luxury building and a roster of skilled artisans to realize unique and dynamic architecture and design. Highline's boutique size allows Mark and his team to be directly involved in every project from pre-construction planning through completion. This high level of oversight provides meticulous execution of increasingly complex build-outs.
Highline Construction Group's rapid growth and portfolio of A-list projects attest to its refined executions and superior customer care.

Areas of Expertise/Recent Projects

Working at the top end of the residential market in New York has never been more challenging or competitive.
Versatile in a myriad of architectural vernaculars, Highline has completed significant work in some of Manhattan's most desirable landmark buildings as well as some of its stunning modern towers. Two major renovations at 812 Fifth Avenue, and a gut renovation of one of Gilded Age heiress Huguette Clark's legendary pre-war apartments at 907 Fifth Avenue as well as two sleek high-floor residences at One Madison, the 60-story modern glass tower facing Madison Square Park, speak to the breadth and depth of their seasoned and talented teams.
Current projects include extraordinary townhouses and residences in the most rarefied classic and contemporary buildings in New York.
