

Martins Construction

Company Philosophy

Martins Construction is one of Los Angeles premier building and remodeling contractors. We've been renovating homes and businesses in the Boston and Los Angeles area for the last fifteen years that have changed and inspired the lives of the people who live in them. Along the way, we've forged personal relationships with many of our clients, all of whom have come to trust our company's exceptional craftsmanship, our assured use of advanced materials and technologies, and our philosophy of socially responsible building practices.

Our approach to the construction process strongly emphasizes listening and communicating with our clients. We understand how important it is that our clients be kept aware of the progress of our projects, and that the process be as open and honest as possible. Once a project begins, our team of professional carpenters, designers and planners will help you at every step of the way. Our work doesn't end until your needs are completely satisfied.

Choosing a contractor is a serious undertaking, and we hope that you take a look around at some of our previous projects and learn more about the methods and beliefs that make up the Martins Construction experience.

If we sound like the right contractor for you, just fill out our contact form or feel free to call us for a walk through and free estimate. We look forward to hearing from you.
